

Obsah

Introduction

Democracy — a Space for Freedom and Responsibility

From Ancient to Representative Democracy

Pathological Forms in Modern Democracy

Democracy between the Ideal and Reality

Human and Civil Rights

Democracy and the Socio–Economic Questions

Defining the Boundaries of Democracy: the Basic Criteria

Politics as the Art of Managing Disagreements

The Crisis of Authority and Legitimacy in Modern Forms of Democratic Rule

Democracy and the „Religious Community“

„Grassroots Spirituality“ as a Call to Take a Personal Stance

Civil Society — the Space for Dignified Self–Realization in an Individual and Social Dimension

Democratic State as a Community of Citizens

Conclusion

Selective Bibliography